Black Boy White School Brian F. Walker, 2012-01-03 He couldn't listen to music or talk on the phone without her jumping all over him about what they listened to up in Maine, or how they talked up in Maine, or how he better not go up to Maine and start acting ghetto. Maine. Anthony's mother didn't even know where it was until he'd shown it to her on a map, but that still didn't stop her from acting like she was born there. Anthony "Ant" Jones has never been outside his rough East Cleveland neighborhood when he's given a scholarship to Belton Academy, an elite prep school in Maine. But at Belton things are far from perfect. Everyone calls him "Tony," assumes he's from Brooklyn, expects him to play basketball, and yet acts shocked when he fights back. As Anthony tries to adapt to a world that will never fully accept him, he's in for a rude awakening: Home is becoming a place where he no longer belongs. In debut author Brian F. Walker's hard-hitting novel about staying true to yourself, Anthony might find a way to survive at Belton, but what will it cost him?

South Bend and the Men who Have Made it ,1901

Sightings of the Sacred ,2016 The renowned South African photographer Daniel Naudé's moving studies of cattle in cultures where they are considered sacred offer unique insight into the lives of the people, the animals, and the spiritual practices that have remained unchanged for thousands of years. For the past two years Daniel Naudé has focused on photographing cattle in societies where these animals are venerated. This beautiful book presents images from parts of Uganda, Madagascar, and India where these animals represent a culture's most profound beliefs. Naudé photographs his subjects with the same respect any photographer would lend toward humans. Richly colored and exquisitely composed, these portraits capture the animals' presence and the landscapes they inhabit while also telling us much about cosmology, ancestor worship, culture, and the tradition of spiritual practices that have evolved over the ages. Like the best photographers, Naudé achieves this all within a single photographic frame.

Home Lands Tamar Garb,Okwui Enwezor,Ivan Vladislavić,2008 Home Lands - Land Marks is an exhibition of new and recent work from seven leading South African artists at Haunch of Venison, London, and the first in London to focus on contemporary South African art since 1995. The publication focuses on images and invocations of landscape which explore contemporary South Africa. Differing from the usual approach to post-apartheid South Africa, the exhibition addresses the complexity of the South African landscape, reflecting upon notions of memory, place and identity, referring to the political context and historical background of South Africa only through the imprint and trace of human experience on the physical landscape. Published on the occasion of the exhibition Home Lands - Land Marks: Contemporary Art from South Africa at Haunch of Venison, London, May - July 2008.

Aron Demetz Alessandro Romanini,Günther Oberhollenzer,2019-02-05 Contemporary sculptor Aron Demetz uses traditional techniques to create electrifying pieces in conversation with works of antiquity. Working primarily in wood, and specifically with basswood, cedarwood, and sequoia, Aron Demetz uses this traditional material to highlight man's relationship to nature. This volume compares Demetz's works with classical sculpture, opening a fascinating dialogue between modern and ancient forms and techniques. Hailing from Northern Italy, Demetz employs regional 17th-century woodcarving techniques in his figurative works. He updates those techniques by layering his sculptures with foils or resin or by charring the artworks which powerfully alter the original wood in ways that are both haunting and familiar. This volume, complete with beautiful reproductions and scholarly essays, offers an in-depth look into Demetz's oeuvre.

Angus Taylor Paul Harris,Johan Myburg,Angus Taylor,Johan Thom,2021-05-20 The first book on the South-African sculptor Angus Taylor to offer a comprehensive survey of his entire work to date. South African sculptor Angus Taylor, born in Johannesburg in 1970 and alumnus of the University of Pretoria, is known mainly for his monumental works. For these, in addition to the classic bronze, he uses a selection of materials special to his immediate environment: black granite, red jasper, straw, and the red earth of the Pretoria region. In the symbiosis of these materials with traditional artistic craft techniques, distinctly contemporary works arise, which Taylor pioneeringly positions as figurative landmark sculpture. This first-ever monograph on Taylor offers a comprehensive survey of his oeuvre to date. Key works from his entire career since the founding of his studio Dionysus Sculpture Works in 1997 are featured in full-color illustrations throughout. The essays discuss Taylor's methods, practices, and personal philosophies and put his work in context with South Africa's social situation as well as with his own biography. The book offers a much-welcomed and profound introduction to Taylor's innovative and characteristic body of work.

The Spirit of Freedom Charles Villa-Vicencio,2023-09-01 This collection of interviews explores the role of religion in the lives of eminent South Africans who led the struggle against apartheid. Nelson Mandela, Chris Hani, Desmond Tutu, Nadine Gordimer, and seventeen other political, religious, and cultural leaders share the beliefs and values that informed the moral positions they adopted, often at great cost. From all ethnic, religious, and political backgrounds, these men and women have shaped one of the greatest political transformations of the century. What emerges from the interviews are reflections on all aspects of life in an embattled country. There are stories of the homelands and townships, and tales of imprisonment and exile. Dedicated communists relate their intense youthful devotion to Christianity; Muslim activists discuss the complexity of their relationships with their communities. As the respondents grapple with difficult questions about faith, politics, and authority, they expose a more personal picture: of their daily lives, of their pasts, and of the enormous conflicts that arise in a society that continually strains the moral fiber of its citizens. Taken together, these interviews reveal the many-faceted vision that has fueled South Africa's struggle for democracy.

The Street Professor Ebi Achigbe Okeng Ebi,2014 It is commonly quoted in Nigeria that if a farmer plants cassava, at harvest time he can only reap cassava. And so it goes that when Don Chilly Senior begrudgingly denied his wife the right to participate in Don Chilly Junior's upbringing, the stage for destruction was set and the repercussions were to be felt as far away as South Africa. Don Junior's parents, especially his father, a former law professor and himself immersed in shady dealings with the wrong people, make many important and significant decisions for their son. Soon both Dons are caught up in their own web of lies, deceit and secrets. Desperate to control his family and business partners, he gains a rather tainted reputation. Between it all, a lot goes wrong. Don Junior, a.k.a. the Street Professor, becomes a 419 and the unlikely victim is Van der Rogue, the president of the South African Allied Farmers' Union. This product of teenage parents, who fell from favour following a steamy affair with the young wife of a benevolent wine merchant, has Fortune smile on him for but a moment. Beguiled by a beauty, he falls for Don's junior's trap. 419 is not a crime, but a penal code created by the subsequent Nigerian government to prosecute those accused of committing the crime called Obtaining By Trick (OBT). The code was amended by different military dictators and sanctified by some others, who baptized the decree that was used to prosecute fraudulent activities that happened to fall under decree number 419. The crime committed against the sucker or mugu as OBT called the victims, dressed in whatever uniform, is simply called fraud. The almighty 419, the kings and queens of fraud, a.k.a. Obtaining By Trick, are indeed the masters of this work of art. The victims and most of the players of this lucrative business are in total darkness. Only a handful of them seem to know what is really happening. But the conspiracy is over. Now let the truth be told to prevent OBT practitioners from injecting the world with the poison of 419 any further.

Claes Oldenburg Claes Oldenburg, Ann Temkin, 2013 In the early 1960s, Claes Oldenburg redefined the concept of sculpture. Published in conjunction with a comprehensive exhibition of the artists early work, Claes Oldenburg: Selected Writings 1956-1969 gathers together in a single volume the artists key writings from the 1960s and several years from either side of the decade. Much of the publication comprises of previously unpublished material, including sections of an extensive diary the artist kept during the formative years of the 1960s, and selection from an autobiographical manuscript that Oldenburg wrote in 1971. The book also reprints seminal texts related to Oldenburgs early exhibitions, a selection of scripts for the accompanying Happenings and related interviews. Claes Oldenburg: Selected Writings 1956-1969 provides insight into the artists working process through a transformative period of his long career.
