From driverless cars to medical diagnostics and monitoring the health of crops to fraud detection in banking, computer vision is used across all domains to automate tasks. The Computer Vision Workshop will help you understand how computers master the art of processing digital images and videos to mimic human activities. Starting with an introduction to the OpenCV library, you'll learn how to write your first script using basic image processing operations. You'll then get to grips with essential image and video processing techniques such as histograms, contours, and face processing. As you progress, you'll become familiar with advanced computer vision and deep learning concepts, such as object detection, tracking, and recognition, and finally shift your focus from 2D to 3D visualization. This CV course will enable you to experiment with camera calibration and explore both passive and active canonical 3D reconstruction methods. By the end of this book, you'll have developed the practical skills necessary for building powerful applications to solve computer vision problems. What you will learnAccess and manipulate pixels in OpenCV using BGR and grayscale imagesCreate histograms to better understand image contentUse contours for shape analysis, object detection, and recognitionTrack objects in videos using a variety of trackers available in OpenCVDDiscover how to apply face recognition tasks using computer vision techniquesVisualize 3D objects in point clouds and polygon meshes using Open3DWho this book is for If you are a researcher, developer, or data scientist looking to automate everyday tasks using computer vision, this workshop is for you. The Book with No Pictures B. J. Novak, 2014-09-30 A #1 New York Times bestseller, this innovative and wildly funny read-aloud by award-winning humorist/actor B.J. Novak will turn any reader into a comedian—a perfect gift for any special occasion! You might think a book with no pictures seems boring and serious. Except . . . here's how books work. Everything written on the page has to be said by the person reading it aloud. Even if the words say . . . BLORK. Or BLUURF. Even if the words are a preposterous song about eating ants for breakfast, or just a list of astonishingly goofy sounds like BLAGGITY BLAGGITY and GLIBBITY GLOBBITY. Cleverly irreverent and irresistibly silly, The Book with No Pictures is one that kids will beg to hear again and again. (And parents will be happy to oblige.)

Der Tiergarten Frederick A. Godshall, 2013-07-23 This story tells about the life and experiences of a young man, our narrator, who grew up in a small-town in America. A biography of this townie (as we will call him) is not intended in this story. He will be treated by the author as a fictional character, Roger Williams, although this young man did experience most events in the story. The parts of the story which are fictional are interwoven with actual events in order to connect events within the sequence of the story and in the order that they occurred. Hopefully, the fictional parts will be indistinguishable from the other. The young man, his service associates and a few fictional cohorts, were the participants in this most remarkable story about conditions of battle within the course of the Cold War and the allied western nations intelligence services operations that were centered in Berlin, West Germany. In the small town home of this man, he was separated from U.S. national politics and most world events by distances, community-attitudes and his own immaturity. With education, travel and some happenstance he grew into a person of the world, zur Weit kommen (to the world he comes.) The first part of this story tells about his youth in small town America while World War II was ending and there was a realization, nationally, that a Cold War was raging. This story shows that small town America was not as far from the Cold War the front-line and world events as the town=s residents might have realized. In retrospect, the world actually came to small.

The experiment goes terribly wrong and results in two babies being murdered. A young woman reporter investigates the crime to help unravel the mystery of all that happened while the youngest of the three scientists, innocent of the murders, is embroiled in the turmoil that ensues. Späte Stummfilme Heinz-Peter Preußner,2018-10-25 In nur zwanzig Jahren, von seiner Einführung durch die Brüder Skladanowsky und die Brüder Lumière 1895 bis zu David Wark Griffith' The Birth of a Nation 1915, hat der Film seine Sprache gefunden und etabliert. Mit dem Akzent auf den letzten Jahren des Stummfilms gehen wir noch einmal rund 10 Jahre voran und fragen, welche wegweisenden ästhetischen Innovationen sich finden lassen, die insbesondere den artifiziellen Charakter des Films, zum Teil bis heute, ausmachen - und in welchen Kontexten diese entstanden sind. 1924 war Friedrich Wilhelm Murnaus Film Der letzte Mann bahnbrechend für die entfesselte Kamera (Karl Freund). Nur drei Jahre später tönt schon der Jazz Singer von der Leinwand. Und weitere drei Jahre darauf, 1930, erlebt der letzte reine Stummfilm seine Uraufführung, Menschen am Sonntag. Diese sieben Jahre also, von 1924 bis 1930, sind der filmhistorische Fokus, in dem die Formkategorien des Films, sein ästhetisches Material, in fast revolutionärer Geschwindigkeit auf ein neues, danach lange nicht mehr gesehenes Niveau gehoben werden. Es scheint, als übe der bevorstehende Medienumbruch hin zum Tonfilm einen Formierungsdruck noch auf den stummen Film in seiner Spätphase aus. Inhäriert dem ästhetischen Material eine je eigene Logizität der Formentwicklung? Ergeben sich die Innovation eher zufällig? Werden sie durch die konkreten Anforderungen des einzelnen Films je neu gefunden? Wie gestaltet sich das Verhältnis von faktualen und fiktionalen Filmen? Welche Teilbereiche zeichnen sich besonders aus: Kamera, Schnitt und Montage, Schauspielerführung, dramaturgisches Konzept, narrative Fokalisierung, Raum- und Lichtgestaltung sowie Mise-en-scène insgesamt, Projektionsformate, Farbeinsatz, Verhältnis von Schrift und Bild, Musikkomposition etc. Eine Sonderrolle nimmt der (nur partiell narrative) Avantgardefilm ein. Die Beiträge fokussieren in der Regel je einen Film aus dem Zeitraum, stellen ihn in den geschichtlichen, kulturellen, politischen und vor allem formalästhetischen Kontext seiner Entstehung – und ziehen erläuternd andere Werke des untersuchten Regisseurs oder verfahrenstechnisch verwandter Filme heran. So entsteht ein Panoptikum der ästhetischen Innovation im späten Stummfilm an seinen ausgesuchten und herausragenden Artefakten. Topsy-turvy 1585 Robin D. Gill, 2004 In 1585, Luis Frois, a 53 year old Jesuit who spent all of his adult life in Japan listed 611(!) ways Europeans and Japanese were contrary (completely opposite) to one another. Robin D. Gill, a 53 year old writer who spent most of his adulthood in Japan, translates these topsy-turvy claims - we sniff the top of our melons to see if they are ripe / they sniff the bottom of theirs (10% of the book), examines their validity (20% of the book), and plays with them (70% of the book). Readers with the intellectual horsepower to enjoy ideas will be grateful for pages discussing things like the significance of black and white clothing or large eyes vs. small ones, while others with a ken to collect quirky facts will be delighted to find, say, that the women in Kyoto were known to urinate standing up, or Japanese horses had their stale gathered by long-handled ladles, etc., and serious students of history and comparative culture will gain a better understanding of the nature of radical difference (exotic, by definition) and its relationship with the farsighted policy of accommodation pioneered by Valignano in the Far East.

Getting the Picture Jason E. Hill, Vanessa R. Schwartz, 2020-09-09 Powerful and often controversial, news pictures promise to make the world at once immediate and knowable. Yet while many great writers and thinkers have evaluated photographs of atrocity and crisis, few have sought to set these images in a broader context by defining the rich and diverse history of news pictures in their many forms. For the first time, this volume defines what counts as a news picture, how pictures are selected and distributed, where they are seen and how we critique and value them. Presenting the best new thinking on this fascinating topic, this book considers the news picture over time, from the dawn of the illustrated press in the nineteenth century, through photojournalism's heyday and the rise of broadcast news and newsreels in the twentieth century and into today's digital platforms. It examines the many kinds of images: sport, fashion, society, celebrity, war, catastrophe and exoticism; and many mediums, including photography, painting, wood engraving, film and video. Packed with the best research and full colour-illustrations throughout, this book will appeal to students and readers interested in how news and history are key sources of our rich visual culture.

Flat Racing and British Society, 1790-1914 Mike Huggins, 2014-06-03 2001 North American Society for Sports History Book of the Year This volume studies the formative period of racing between 1790 and 1914. This was a time when, despite the opposition of a respectable minority, attendance at horse races, betting on horses, or reading about racing increasingly became central leisure activities of much of British society.
